David Ingram

10/1/2021 -We were in-person at the Salt Creek Grill on Friday and our speaker was David Ingram, Regional Vice President, Advisor Consultant, Hartford Funds.

David spoke about streamlining and simplifying things within your business, including how to control the chaos of your day and dedicate your evenings to the people and things that matter most. He gave us some tips on how to organize your time by using a method to classify all of the tasks you need to do. Eliminate or delegate the least valuable and focus on those tasks with the most long-term value, is the idea. Consistent implementation usually happens, in part, by having some one else hold you accountable for achieving your goals. Most people find it too difficult to accomplish by themselves. Great advice for everyone.

Sean Jackson, Isles CEO

10/15/2021 –. Our speaker this past Friday was the CEO of Isles, Sean Jackson. Isles is a local non-profit whose mission is to create self-reliant communities. They carry out their mission by improving specific problems in the Trenton community as well as tackle the systemic causes of those problems.

Sean gave us a few examples of how Isles works in the community, one of which was levels of lead in the soil in and around Trenton. Lead is toxic to humans at certain levels and can do neurologic damage to children. They notices elevated lead levels in the soil as part of creating local gardens to grow produce. The problem was ultimately traced to the older houses in Trenton being painted with lead paint. They are still involved with on-going testing, remediation and legislative efforts to require testing and proper maintenance. Thanks to Sean for speaking to our club about their important work.

Tim Sexton, RAGAS

10/22/2021 –Our speaker this week was member Tim Sexton. Tim has been very active in the anti-human trafficking area and is the New York Regional Coordinator of the Rotary Action Group Against Slavery (RAGAS).

Tim spoke about some truth and myths around this topic and also made the point that this is a very local problem. It's highly likely there are people, in our communities who are living here and working, under terrible conditions, against their will. Many industries, including hospitality, farming and manufacturing, have been found to harbor this kind of activity.

Tim's presentation was designed to raise awareness of this local and global problem and give us some resources for further information. First among these was RAGAS. Their web site is www.ragas.online. Please visit that site and get involved to help eradicate this problem.
